Our Memorials

At Huntingdon Crematorium, we understand how difficult the bereavement journey can be when saying a final farewell to a loved one.

Our crematorium offers a variety of memorial options to help you choose the right way to commemorate your loved one.

We have memorials that are suitable for all beliefs, and a wide range of price options.

Our experienced team is here to help you with your choice when you are ready.

Your choice

The final resting place of a loved ones' cremated remains is an extremely important and personal decision and careful consideration should be given to all options available to you.

We have several peaceful and tranquil areas within the grounds which provide options for scatterings, above ground and burial of cremated remains.

We have a woodland setting which allows only for scatterings to take place either in communal areas or within private nooks.

The formal memorial gardens adjacent to the crematorium, provide above ground memorial choices. No scatterings or burials can take place in this area.

The cemetery provides for burial of cremated remains.

This brochure will guide you through the range of options available, and once you feel ready, our experienced team will be available for a memorial consultation to show you around the grounds and to discuss your needs, ensuring the memorial chosen is the right one for you and your family.

Important Information

Before making a choice it is important to understand what options are available for a loved ones' cremated remains at our facility.

We offer three types of resting places as follows:-

Above Ground

Cremated remains are placed in memorials which are positioned above ground . These types of memorials will safely hold your loved ones' ashes inside them without needing to inter them below ground. They offer a safe non-permanent place, as the remains can be retrieved should you change your mind, or move away and wish to take your loved ones' remains with you.

Placing of the ashes inside a memorial such as a vault or niche, can be performed in the presence of the bereaved family members or without.

Our dedicated staff will be on hand to support with either option.

Scattering

A scattering is where a loved ones' cremated remains are loosely dispersed into a grave. This is a permanent final resting place, and the remains cannot be retrieved again.

The scattering can be performed in the presence of family members or without.

Interment/Burial

An interment of ashes provides an opportunity to create a specific final resting place for a loved one where the ashes will be placed below ground and the plot will be marked by a memorial with wording of your choice. The cremated remains can only be retrieved by applying for an exhumation through the Ministry of Justice.

Interments can be attended by family members or performed without their presence.

The Memorial Gardens

The Memorial Gardens are the more formal setting for memorials within the Crematorium Grounds.

Methods of placement of ashes in this area are solely in Memorial Wall Niches (page 7) and Ashes Vaults (page 8) providing options for above-ground placement of ashes only.

All memorials in this area are leased for a period of time and can be renewed towards the end of this time period or the memorials can be taken home for placement in a garden or other suitable area.

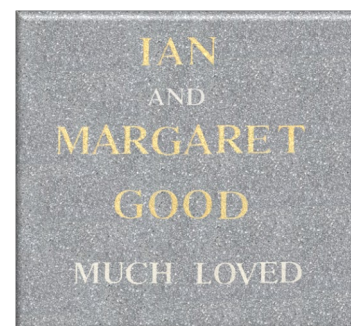

Memorial Wall Niche

Wall niches provide a location to safely hold your loved one's ashes above ground and are marked by a memorial tablet with the words of your choice.
